

Genworth MI's Guide to MI Cancellation & Termination

Single-Family, Primary Residences with BPMI

What is the Homeowners Protection Act of 1998 (HPA)?

Dictates thresholds for borrower-requested cancellation and automatic termination of MI coverage

- HPA sets guidelines for borrower-initiated cancellation or automatic termination on borrower-paid mortgage insurance
- Investors such as Fannie Mae & Freddie Mac must follow these guidelines
- Investors can set additional, less-stringent MI cancellation and termination requirements than the HPA
- Borrower may initiate cancellation when loan amount reaches 80% LTV
- Servicer must automatically terminate MI coverage the earlier of when the loan is scheduled to reach 78% LTV or the month following midpoint
- Servicers must provide annual disclosures to borrowers with both BPMI and LPMI to state that the borrower has MI on their loan

What happens to the MI premium when coverage is terminated or canceled under HPA?

MI providers will refund any unearned premium to the loan servicer

For second homes, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac's cancellation and termination guidelines are the same as a single-family primary residence.

HPA only applies to single-family primary residences using BPMI.
The GSEs and other investors set their own rules for other types of properties.
